WASHINGTON, December 13.—The national' suffinge amendment is not likely to pass Congress. A canvas of the House by some of its supporters show that it will not get a majority vote, to say nothing of the required two-thirds.
The proposed amendment is pending before the Judiciary Committee of both Houses, and that of the Senate is expected to report adversely to it at an early day. Among those who oppose the amendment are some of Grant's strongest supporters.

The tragedy at New Albany, which is given to the readers of the Country. Journal to the readers of the Country. The tragedy at New Albany, which is fature absolutely depends. Few also will venture to doubt his great capacity for barbarism. In Barbadoes he has been constrained by powers which he could not resist, by numbers which he could not overcome, and by necessities at which he must satisfy, to labor for his daily bread. But Barbadoes is just the exception to the rule which governs his normal tendencies. In Jamaica, where he has had a clear stage and favorable completely in the country of their crusade against the Democratic perty, it will be necessary to have a lodge of Kuklux conveniently situated in all of the Northern States. Otherwise, as mobes are occasional and murders common, people will presently distrust their exclusive belonging and begin to ascribe them to other influences than those of treason, which appears to have had little to do with the hanging of the Seymour outlaws. They other influences than those of treason, which spears to have had little to do with the hanging of the Seymour outlaws. They were certainly desperate men. They had endangered the peace of society. Perhaps they deserved to hang. But how about the mode of procedure? This is the question; and we do not hesitate to condemn it as we should do if it had occurred elsewhere. We are disposed to speak of it with a degree of moderation because it occurred in the North and not in the South. It is our desire to practice what we preach.

It is our desire to practice what we preach and to be just in all things. A few days ago we published an article from the New Albany Commercial in-veighing against what that paper called the "barbariam of Kentucky." It was a most calumnious article, as our readers remember. Suppose, taking this present affair as our text, we should descant upon the "barbarism of Indiana," for nothing quite so had has occurred in Kentucky, what would be saids of our good sense and good feeling? In its reply to our strictures the Commercial fell into a rage of petulent personality. It lost sight of the COURLER-JOURNAL—which speaks for itself and for its class, and is confined in its expressions to no private feeling or interest—to assail to such trivialities, but the case in point illustrates the unfairness of Radical criti-cism in general; for the article which aroused the Commercial's anger happened to be written by one who was born and reared in New England, while the article which it copied and praised so highly was written by the party whom it went out of its way to assail—as a rebel. So it goes; and all the bad blood and all the intolerance is laid at the door of Southern men. The object of Radical partisans is to de-stroy this; for they live off the passions of the North. Hence the perfinacious and indiscriminate abuse of "rebels and traivote the Republican ticket never be able to see, if not in reason and human nature, at least in the play of current events, the as least in the play of current events, in injustice they are doing the people of the South? Will they never learn that there is as much violence in one part of the coun-try as in the other, and of the same descrip-tion? Suppose this Indians business had occurred in Kentucky, would it not be her-alded far and wide by the Radical press as the work of the Kuklux Klam? Would we work of the Kuklux Klam? Would we

Our dispatches this morning tell us that the Cuban insurrection is showing a more ormidable front; and a private letter from formidable front; and a private letter from the Island of St. Thomas, which we have just received, gives us notice of some queer doings of Santa Anna. It seems that he is not weary of plotting, and that this time he is organizing a great American protec-toriste, to be composed of Mexico and the Spanish Antilles. There is nothing in this, as we know; for the brainless schemes of the visionary old man serve only as food the visionary old man serve only as food for mirth. The insurrection in Cuba, how-ever, is of a different complexion, and must, ever, is of a different complexion, and must, soon or late, introduce the subject to very general discussion in this country.

There is but one use, it seems to us, that Cuba can be put to, and at risk of horrify-ing the sensibilities of those fervid philan-throphists who have well-nigh ruined ten States in order to make Sambo a fool and a vagrant, we may as well state the case. a vagrant, we may as well state the care

It can be stated in a single paragraph.
There is a conflict of opinion concerning the efficacy of free labor and slave labor in the culture of cotton, sugar, and rice.
By strangers the decision is yet held in suspense. At the North the whole question is looked on as an experiment. But, as slavery is abolished in this country, we cannot test it here. In Cuba, however, slavery still exists, let it continue to exist, the one system and the other working alongside of each other, divided only by the Gulf stream. If the trial of free labor in Louisiana is a success, and the trial of slave labor in Ouba is not a success, abolish slavery in Cuba. If the trial in Louisiana, however, is a failure, and the under a more humane system than that practiced by the Spaniards, he is more and more naeful, contented, and presperous, restore to the entire cotton-growing, sugar-producing country a liberal system of apprenticeship or slavery, whichever it may be called, and, instead of trying to elevate the negro into a local demi-god, let us try to do something for him as a man. By a process of this kind Cuba could be made serviceable. She would become either's garden spot of prac-

Our experience during the period when the indians were under military care and grardian

the moral, intellectual and material condition of these wards of the Government. These is nothing in the pursuits or character of the soldier which especially adapts him to this duty. It can be better fulfilled by our civil officers. No divided conterment with the exercise by this department of its acknowledged and exclusive jurisdiction over

FIRST AFFARANCE OF THE LYNCHERS.

There o'clock yesterday morning—Luther W three o'clock yesterday or the con-nade their appearance in force. Whitean uside guard, hearing the tunuit in the y pened the door of the office, when he was conted by a number of men in masks, who, y pathally at the omhous sounds of coming doom, for none knew which of them was to die.

The following account of the scenes which transpired upon the last entrance of the lynchers, was given one of the Ournell-Journal reporter by Henry Clark, a prisoner in the New Albany all, awaiting trial on the charge of killing Geo Telle at Salem. Clark was an eye-witness of a great deal that passed, as she cell is one of the second range, the grated door opening on the ison walk, from the railing of which the Beno brothers and Anderson were swung off. He heard all that was said, and gives a very clear and apparently reliable statement.

ETATEMENT OF MENRY CLARK.

The first persons I saw in the hall were two men who had on masks of red flamel or something of the kind—perinaps red handkerchies. I heard men tailing to Matthews, the guard, apparently endies or of the content o HANGING OF FRANK RENO.

I then beard some one say, "Bring a rope," and they went to Frank Beno's cell. At first Frank said nothing, and I beard the word, "Frank said nothing, and I beard the words, "Frank seated some, and cried, "For God's sake, gentlemen, what are you going to do?" They told him to dry up, and then tied his hands, and a couple of them grabbed him by the throat, pushing him along as they got to the top of the stairs. He churched at the bannisters, but made no noise. He dided very hard.

LYNCHING OF SIMBON AND WM. BENO.

After banging Frank they went to No. 7, where refused.

LOCKING UP AND LEAVING.

The men of the scarlet masks then locked up everybody but Mr. and Mrs. Fullenlove, and tak-

Here was no poper unity of earing them in the car and slaughtering them. Instead of doing this the guards, in the great excitement of the moment, commenced shooting as soon as a head was shown at the door, and fired a dozen shots at random, without touching anylody.

A FORMER ATTEMPT.
On the occasion of one of the political railies at New Albany last fall, a number of men were there for the purpose of hanging Simeon and William Reno. Sheriff Fulleniore heard of this, and took his prisoners to the pealtentiary at Jeffersonville which the keenos and their friction were printegal actors. On the 10th of July following, the Adams Express was again attempted to be robbed about twelve miles west of Seymour, but the armed guards of the company repulsed the robbers, captured one, as company repulsed the robbers, captured one, as company repulsed the coherence of the company repulsed the control of the company of the company vas one of the rang, and was captured on the man was one of the rang, and was captured on the means were necessary for their support.

LYNCHING OF SIMBON AND WA. RENO.

After hanging Frank they went to No. 7, where since on and William Reno were. As they opened the door some one spoke up and said, "what do you want in here?" Then I heard something fall, and I afterward heard that one of them had been knocked down by Simson, who had seized a sink lid to derind kinself. I then heard the fall sinks of the cell had been knocked down by Simson, who had seized a sink lid to derind kinself. I then heard the fall sinks of the cell had been knocked down by Simson, who had seized a sink lid to derind kinself. I then heard the fall sinks of the property of the train to take water. This rena sinks property the train to take water. This rena sinks property the train to take water. This rena is not the relation to the relation rate, they would not experience the amount they did secure.

ITHE SECOND TRAIN CAPTURE.

In their last attempt, which was made at about two o'clock on the merning of July 19th, they were fortunately frustrated, although in a rather bungling manner. The affair happened in this manner. There had been another gathering of well-known thieves in Seymour, and (I, became evident that they were contemplating another express robbery. James Flanders, an engineer of the Ohio a Mississippi Railroad, was enabled to gain their condidence, and promised to stand in with them in the robbery, which was planned to a made on his train when it should reach Missisppi road, which he quit of his own as in January last, since which time he has rery little work. He has another brother, a of excellent reputation, who has been in the loy of the Adams Express Company for a time. For three years he served faithfully it

By order of the VIGILANCE COMMITTEE, SEYMOUE, IND., July 21, 1886. But the end was not yet. The work of the con dressed and burfed. Sparks and Jarrell were buried in the graveyard near Feymouir, while Moore was buried at Chestnut Ridge, in his father's graveyard, some three mides from town. At the grave-yard great threats were made against detectives and the vigilance committee, but they are not beeded. Moore had a bail in his arm, another in his left side, and his ribe were grazaed by another ball. Jarrell had a bail in his legithe bail had fallen down below the Rece-cap. They experienced very little pain from their wounds, as can be judged by their labors in the harvest field. Frank Sparks was twenty-dwe years of age, was raised in Jackson county, but made his head-quarters with some abandoned women at Rockford. He was of a very respectable family, who, with all his faults, could not forego the daily of giving his remains a respectable burging in the present attending, mostly attracted to the place, no doubt, by the violence attending his death. He served three years during the war in the Eighty-ninta Indiana infaniry, but was not a good soldler, as he was repeatedly taken to the front in irons as a desertor. He stwo brothers are rich and honorable farmers, who are respected far and wide. He was a small man, about twe feet four inches high, black hair, dark complexion, and a desperate appearance. In connaction with Sparks, we heard that Bill Hare, the man who kept the house in Rockford where Sparks loafed, was string up three separate times to make him reveal has now ledge of the gang. Just a hard weld. It the Brownence appress robbery he was slightly wounded in the hand.

In April last he returned, and was not a week in a Seemour before Wincott's saloon was volbed of $150 worth of wines and liquors; the postomes and a paint shop were also tapped, and Roseberry was arrested for having worked the jobs, but the house a procured, and he was equitted. After the trials he returned to sermour and went to work with his brother at painting, at which he was a most excellent hand, and was thus engaged up to the time of the attempted express robbery. He received a shot of a very serious character, in the neck in 1883, while attempting to garrote and rob railroad passenger in Seymour.

Monetary and Commercial.

SATURDAY EVENING, Dec. 12, 1888. SATURDAY BYENING, Dec. 12, 1988.

The week closes with a stringent money market. The demand for loans is in excess of the resources of the banks, and the rates of interest range from 9 to 16 per cent. First-class borrowers are not unit equentity subjected to delay in obtaining accommodations, but beyond this inconvenience we hear of no complaints. Pork-packers have been and are still urgeau in their demands, and certain to draw largely, but the packing season is rapidly drawing to its closes, and the consequent abatement of its resufferents will contribute largely to the advantage of other departments of business. It is therefore fair to presume that greater case will be a feature of local | Boots | Several Cooks | Arts | 175 to 2 sp |
